

Future Perfect

⇒ How do we form this tense?

Future perfect = Will have + past participle of a verb

Ex: - Manage → will have managed
 - Speak → will have spoken

⇒ Why do we use this tense?

We use the future perfect to express an action that will be complete (done) at a particular point of the future or when an action will happen or even before. (=By)

⇒ Some time expressions used with this tense are:

- By 1015, By the end of this year,
- By (next) June,
- By this time next year,
- By the time you arrive,
- Within two months's time,

⇒ Examples:

- 1) By the end of this month, we will have moved to a new house
- 2) By 2025, Spain will have become the leader of Europe
- 3) By the end of this school year, I will have studied English for four years.
- 4) By the time you come back from work, I will have painted the door.
- 5) I will have done my research paper within two years' time.

Put the verbs between brackets in the future perfect tense.

1. By this time next month, they (build) two new schools.
2. It is expected that scientists (find) a cure to AIDS
3. I (memorize) the Holy book within two years time.
4. By next Monday, I (learn) all the common irregular verbs by heart.
5. Some people say that by 2025, the US dollar (collapse) and become valueless
6. Some people say that by 2022, Paris (become) occupied by foreign people